FOREWORD

The Indian Council of Social Science Research has an approved programme of initiating and supporting compilation and publication of basic bibliographies in different disciplines as well as those on selected significant topics in social sciences. The main objective of this programme is to ensure that the social scientists should have access to as complete a bibliographical control as possible over all categories of research material in social sciences relating to India.

The present bibliography is a major scheme implemented under the above programme. It was made possible because of the cooperation extended by the Gokhale Institute of Politics & Economics, Pune. I, therefore, take this opportunity to place on record the gratitude of the Council to the Institute, and especially to Dr. V.M. Dandekar, Director of the Institute, and to the team of research workers headed by Dr. V.D. Divekar who have compiled this bibliography very diligently and painstakingly.

The Council hopes that the social scientists in India and outside will find this bibliography useful.

PREFACE

The present Annotated Bibliography on the Economic History of India covers the period from 1500 A.D. to 1947 A.D. Naturally, its geographic coverage is the former undivided India as it was in 1947. Hence, in a sense, it covers the economic history of India, Pakistan and Bangla Desh from 1500 to 1947. The choice of 1500 as the beginning of the period to be covered was made mainlyon pragmatic grounds. Nevertheless, one might mention that Vasco da Gama reached Calicut in 1498 and thus established the first modern contact between Europe and India. A little later, in 1526, Babar defeated Ibrahim Lodi in the first battle of Panipat and thus laid the foundation of Mughal empire in India. Therefore, if the historians agree, we may say that the present bibliography covers the 'modern period' of Indian history. Material pertaining to this period, appearing in both primary and secondary sources, is relatively better catalogued and naturally is more easily accessible.

The choice of the terminal year 1947 was obvious. Firstly, later developments are too recent to be called History. Secondly, if later period were covered, it would be difficult to justify covering the undivided India for the earlier period as well; on the other hand, separation of material on the earlier period for the present India would have posed many problems and probably might have proved to be a pedantic exercise not worth the effort. Afterall, the history of India, Pakistan and Bangla Desh during the period covered by this Bibliography is too much of a unity to permit such an artificial separation. Source material on the economic history of India, for this relatively recent period, exists both in the form of archival/manuscript records and in the form of printed, though not necessarily published works, thanks to the British administrators to print all important and numerous not so important public as well as private documents. The present Bibliography covers only the printed material. Furthermore, it is confined to the printed material in the English language only. Admittedly, this is a serious limitation of the present Bibliography. However, as will be evident, even the printed material in the English language is enormously voluminous and to put it all together in the present form has demanded much laborious effort. Putting together in a similar form, printed material in other languages and the archival/manuscript material will require another and probably much greater effort.

Existing Bibliographies

Preparation of a bibliography on Indian economic history is not a new venture. After 1773, as the British Parliament began to show increasing interest in the affairs of the East India Company and its territorial possessions in India, a large number of British Parliamentary Papers were produced covering many aspects of Indian life. There are published catalogues and indexes of these papers such as the one produced by the India Office, London, in 1909, entitled Annual lists and general index of the Parliamentary papers relating to the East Indies published during the years 1801 to 1907 inclusive. (Parliamentary Paper no. 89 of 1909).

The first comprehensive bibliographical effort on the subject was undertaken by John R. McCulloch in his book, The Literature of Political Economy (London, 1845). Section IV of Chapter 2 of this book deals with trade, history and condition of India, China and the Eastern Archipelago, etc. About 14 pages are devoted to India and about 60 works both official and non-official, are dealt with critically.

Another noteworthy bibliography, Bibliography of economic books relating to India by Jagdish Prasad, (Allahabad, 1923), was prepared at the Allahabad University in 1923, at the instance of Professor Stanley Jevons. It tried to list all books relating to Indian economy. Most of the books consulted and entered in the bibliography were either in the Allahabad University Library, or in the Thorn-Hill Public Library, Allahabad. The bibliography contained a number of older works on the subje which have now become rare. However, it does not include periodical articles and government publications. Moreover, the bibliography is not annotated.

Margaret H. Case's South Asian History 1750-1950: a guide to periodicals, dissertations and newspapers (Princeton, Princeto Univ Press, 1968) is indeed a good bibliography but only a few of the items listed are annotated. The material is divided int six parts, one of which is Economic History As the title of the bibliography suggests, it does not include books, reports, etc. Besides, there are a few bibliographic essays on the subject. Some of them are good; but, as is to be expected, they are generally selective, discussive, and often only illustrative in nature.

Sectional Catalogues, etc.

The present Bibliography is divided into eleven Parts, viz. (1) Selections fro records; (2) Survey and settlement reports;

(3) Gazetteers; (4) Acts and Regulations; (5) British Parliamentary papers; (6) Reports of committees and commissions; (7) Census reports; (8) Serials; (9) Books; (10) Articles; and, (11) Theses. For convenience, we propose to issue them bound in four volumes. This one is the first in the series.

In some cases, a work may fall into more than one category. For example, a committee report or a serial, might also have been published as a Parliamentary paper. In such cases, the item is included in a part devoted to a more specific category than to a general category. Thus, if a work is both a Parliamentary Paper and a committee report, or, a serial, it is included in the Part containing committee reports or serials as the case may be; if it is both a selection and a settlement report, it is included in the Part containing survey and settlement reports. In the Part containing Parliamentary papers only those items which are neither committee reports, nor serials, nor acts, etc. are included.

For most of these categories there already exist some catalogues, guides, etc. which were useful to us. We have listed this material in the introductions to the respective Parts of the Bibliography. For instance, the catalogues of holdings of the Imperial Library, Calcutta, published in 1901, includes a catalogue of the Selections from Records which the Library then had. But, thereafter, a number of Selections have been published by the Government of India, by Provincial governments, the governments of princely states as also private agencies. There is no single catalogue listing all such Selections published. This had to be compiled from several sources.

Collection of information on the survey and settlement reports was even more difficult. So far as the Bombay region is concerned, many of them, though not all, were included in the series of Selections from records of the Bombay Government, and hence, were easily traceable. For the settlement reports of other regions, catalogues of some important old libraries, were the main source of information. Many reports were also located through correspondence with the Directors of State Land Records, and also by paying visits to their offices. In many cases, it appears, only a few copies of the settlement reports were printed for official use and they were neither recorded in any well-known catalogues, nor are they now traceable in the old libraries or Land Records Offices. Hence a number of additional items continued to come to our notice and delayed the finalisation of this Part of the Bibliography. To avoid further delay, we reluctantly decided to incorporate in the form of an Addendum additional items coming to our notice. Even with this, we do not feel sure that we have covered all the Survey and Settlement Reports. Evidently, the search must continue.

For Acts and Regulations, different editions of the 'Codes', as well as serials containing acts passed during the year were used. For the laws relating to the East India Company and the early British rule, etc., 'collections of acts' on the specific subjects were used. At the end of the Part, a list of source material is given to help locate a missing item, if any, from the original works.

The British Parliamentary Papers relating to India for the period 1801-1907 are listed chronologically with a subject index, in a Parliamentary Paper no. 89 of 1909 mentioned above. Recently (1968) this list is reprinted by the Irish University Press, Shannon, Ireland. For the Parliamentary Papers published after 1907, other official catalogues are useful.

There does not exist any bibliography which lists all the committee and commission reports published upto 1947. Those published as Parliamentary Papers during the years 1801-1907, were traced in the work mentioned above. For the rest, the holdings of some old libraries were mainly relied upon. In an appendix to this Part, a list of reports of the Central Legislature Select Committees is given to help the reader to identify some of the reports which he may want to consult even though they may not be directly useful for the study of economic history.

The Census publications are now mostly all catalogued in a recent bibliography brought out by the Registrar General's office, India. But, strange as it may appear, they are not all available at any one place. There was also some difficulty in tracing pre-1872 (first census) publications.

The Social Science Documentation Centre of the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, has recently brought out a series of union catalogues of serials available in different regions, as well as in the National Library, Calcutta. They have proved very valuable.

So far as information relating to books, articles and theses is concerned, reliance has mostly to be placed on the catalogues of well-known old libraries, subject bibliographies, and lists of theses brought out by different universities, the Association of Indian Universities (formerly known as Inter University Board of India), and by the Indian Council of Social Science Research.

Preparation of Check-lists

On the basis of information available in various catalogues, bibliographies, etc., preliminary check-lists were prepared for each of the Parts. Simultaneously with the preparation of these check-lists, the work of annotation of available material was also undertaken. With the progress of work, as new items came to notice, the check-lists were strengthened by incorporating additional items. In some cases, the items in the check-lists had to be dropped because, while annotating, the work was found to be not relevant. At one stage, it was thought that publication of these preliminary check-lists would also be useful to scholars in the field. Accordingly, a preliminary check-list of theses was published as a supplement to Vol. 10 No. 1 (March 1973) of the Indian Economic and Social History Review (Delhi), with the co-operation of the editors of the Review. Later, in view of the size of the check-lists, and also because an early publication of the Bibliography in its final form could be visualised, the idea of publishing the check-lists for the other Parts was abandoned.

Availability of Material

For annotation, particularly during the earlier period of the work, the holdings of the Servants of India Society's Library (Gokhale Institute's Library) at Pune were mainly consulted. When a book was not available at the Institute's Library, other libraries in Pune were searched, namely, those of the Deccan College, Fergusson College, Land Records Office, and the Alienation Office, or the Peshwa Daftar. Libraries of three institutions in Bombay were also extensively used, viz., the Maharashtra State Archives, the Asiatic Society, and the Maharashtra High Court. A member of the staff was posted at Delhi to annotate the works available there, especially at such centres as the National Archives of India, Central Secretariat Library, Parliament Library, etc. In Calcutta, the National Library and West Bengal Secretariat Library were extensively used. Apart from the Maharashtra State Archives, archives of other states were also used, namely, the state archives of Andhra Pradesh (Hyderabad), Karnataka (Bangalore), Jammu and Kashmir (Jammu), the Punjab (Patiala), Tamil Nadu (Madras), and Uttar Pradesh (Lucknow). The Bihar State Legislature Library, and the Bihar Research Society's Library at Patna, and the Karnataka High Court Library, Bangalore, were also consulted. Libraries in England, and, the British Museum, London, were also visited. Apart from these centres, there are many other libraries, archival centres, offices of land records, etc. which were used to locate the needed material. We are grateful to the staff of these libraries for their willing co-operation.

At the beginning of each Part, a full list of the names of libraries consulted for the work of that Part is given. Also, in each of the annotated items, the information about the library consulted is given along with the information relating to the condition of the work - good, useable, or bad as the case may be. In the case of Part 4: Acts, a list of source material, along with the information relating to availability of each of the item is also given. In Part 8: Serials, as no single library has all the volumes, names of two or more libraries are mentioned, showing respective volume numbers available with them. When the name of a library is mentioned against a work, it only means that the work was consulted there. It does not mean that the work is not available elsewhere. It is because of this that the Library of the Gokhale Institute, Pune, and one or two other important libraries are found mentioned more frequently. In an annotated item, along with the name of the library consulted, the 'condition' of the work consulted and its 'form' - printed, microfilm, micro-fiche, etc. - is also mentioned. Thus, almost all the items appearing in this Bibliography have been physically traced and checked. Only a few items could not be so traced and checked. Nevertheless, they are included in the Bibliography because they are apparently important.

It is hoped that an indication of the location of the material consulted and its physical condition will be found useful because the catalogues of many libraries show books and periodicals which are often not available there. The experience of Prof. Stanley Jevons in connection with the bibliography of economic books relating to India, mentioned above, is worth recording here. He observed: "An attempt was made to see some of the older books not available in Allahabad in the Imperial Library, Calcutta, but although mentioned in the catalogue, these old books were found to be missing almost without exception."

Statistics

Another innovation of the present Bibliography is the particular attention paid to statistical material of interest to economic history. Wherever a work contains any statistics on any aspect of economic activity, the information is annotated by mentioning first the name of the region concerned - whether, it is the entire country or a Province, or a Princely state, a district, a taluka, a city or even a village; the period covered by the statistics is shown next, followed by the subjects covered. Where the statistics available is not in the form of a series, but is still found to be important, it is mentioned as 'Stray Statistics'.

In the case of Serials, the publication of its volumes being spread over a long period, there is always a possibility of changes occurring in the coverage of the statistics regarding subjects or regions. This is shown in the annotation of serials, by giving the volume number in which the change was noticed first, stating the particular addition or deletions made. In the case of serials where all the volumes could not be physically consulted the information regarding the change in coverage is given on the basis of contents of the volumes actually consulted - which, in some cases, may mean that the change in statistical information might have taken place since some earlier volume as well. It will be appreciated that tracing of changes in coverage in statistical series is a laborious task. Our effort in this matter is far from complete. It is not unlikely that in places it is not totally accurate.

Index

The Bibliography is arranged according to a classification schedule specially devised for this purpose. The entire schedule is given elsewhere along with its relative index. The schedule and the index together should help the reader to find what material exists in the subject or subjects of his interest.

Each Part contains, according to requirements, different indexes: Subject, Region, and Author. The index refers to the class number and item number and not page number. Each item in the subject index indicates the Subject, its subdivision, the region covered, and the period covered. The Region and Author indexes mention only the class number and the item number. However, from the class number, the reader may easily find the subject on which information is available. The word author in the Author index, is defined rather liberally to include, besides authors, editors, chairmen and members of committee, writers of minutes of dissent, etc. Since the Parts containing annotations for Survey and settlement reports, Gazetteers, and Census publications are each devoted to a particular subject, the Classification Schedule is not used in their case, instead, the Survey and settlement reports and Gazetteers are arranged geographically, and the Census publications chronologically. These Parts, therefore, contain only Region and Author indexes and not the Subject index. In the case of Acts and Regulations, the British Parliamentary Papers, and Serials, the Author index does not appear. Only Subject and Region indexes are given. In brief each Part contains the necessary indexes. With the help of these indexes, it is hoped, it should be possible for the user of the Bibliography to trace the required material on the subject, or, on the region of his interest.

Thus, by means of annotation, classification, cross-references, and indexes, we have tried to make the Bibliography as useful as possible. We are aware that in many cases, it is not complete and that, it is far from perfect. But to try to make it more complete and to remove the many imperfections would have delayed its publication possibly beyond reasonable limits. If we shall have an opportunity to bring out a second edition, we assure the users, that it will be more complete and less imperfect than this one. We look forward to receiving suggestions from users.

This work is the result of assistance, co-operation and collaboration received from many institutions and persons. Foremost among them are the several libraries, archival centres, and government departments, their heads and staff. As already mentioned, they will be found listed in each Part. We are grateful to them for the free access they gave us to their material.

Within the Institute, this is the work of a team ably led by Dr. V.D.Divekar, the Chief Editor. His colleagues in the team are shown separately in the opening pages. But all could not be listed. Many have worked for brief periods as appointments had to be made from year to year. We gratefully remember them on this occasion.

In order to expedite printing and to keep its costs low, we have chosen to print it by photo-offset process in reduced form from typed manuscript. We trust the presentation will be agreeable to the readers. Our thanks are due to the Parashuram Process, Pune, printers and the Bharat Book Binding Works, Pune, binders for the excellent job they have done.

Last but not the least we should acknowledge our debt to the Indian Council of Social Science Research. Without the generous financial support from the Council, we could not have undertaken this work; and without the sympathetic understanding of our difficulties and inevitable delays on our side requiring extension of time limit and financial support from the Council, we could not have completed the work. But even the generous financial support does not provide the true measure of the participation of the Council in this endeavour. The ICSSR has all along looked at this effort as its own project as much as the Gokhale Institute has regarded it its own responsibility. It has been a truly joint effort of the ICSSR and the Gokhale Institute and that is how it is presented in these volumes. Nevertheless, we must make specific mention of the personal attention that this project has received from Prof. M.S.Gore, the Chairman, Dr. J.P.Naik, the Member-Secretary and Shri N.M.Ketkar, the Director, Social Science Documentation Centre of the ICSSR. We are grateful for the personal attention, assistance and encouragement we received from them.

INTRODUCTION

Selections from Records of various government agencies and departments constitute an important primary source of Indian economic history. Government officials have to conduct various inquiries, carry on correspondence on different matters, submit notes etc. in the course of their duties. This had to be done in greater detail when the British administrators started their work in India in the early days of the British rule. Voluminous information was collected on social and economic conditions of the people, their history, the results of the new administration and particularly the revenue administration in India. Much of this information was found to be very interesting and useful for better administration, as also for general research. This prompted the authorities to undertake publication of some important material in the form of Selection from Records. In the introduction to the first Selection from Records, published by the East India Company in 1820, the purpose of their publishing is well stated in the following words:

> "The India Records are of such magnitude and are so miscellaneous in their nature, that documents upon a single subject would, if collected, frequently compose several volumes, whilst they lie dispersed through, perhaps, hundreds of volumes. Much labour and time must consequently be wasted in procuring information and collating opinions upon important questions, unless the most material documents which bear upon each are brought together in a somewhat regular and connected form. Even thus voluminous manuscripts, besides being tedious in the perusal, can be circulated conveniently only among a very few individuals. This consideration, and the acknowledged utility of the Appendix to the Fifth Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on East India Affairs, printed in 1812, suggested the expediency of printing a Selection of Papers from the India Records of late years, relative to the Administration of Revenue, Justice and Police for the use of the Board of Commissioners, the Court of Directors, and the Company's Servants in India. The following volumes have accordingly been compiled, with the view of facilitating research and rendering information more accessible to those in whom knowledge is essential to a beneficial exercise of power and an efficient discharge of trust. 1/

Publication of Selections has proved to be useful to the researcher in many ways. Manuscripts are available only at one place, are perishable and difficult to handle as they become older. Published as Selections, they are available in a number of libraries; even an individual scholar may possess them. However, it may be pointed out that only a fraction of manuscript material has been published as Selections and a researcher who wants to study some problems in depth may have to refer to the original manuscript materials. We have not come across common guidelines, if any, that were followed in selecting the materials for publication. Many of the administration reports and survey settlement reports have been published as Selections by some Governments. The selection, it appears, was largely influenced by the expediency of the situation, as also, the interests of the persons who undertook the task of selection for publication. This can be seen from the preface to one of the Bombay Selections, viz. Tours for scientific and economical research made in Guzerat, Kathiawar and the Conkans in 1787-1788, by Dr.Hove (item no 2.2-2). The manuscript of the tours made by a Polish Savant, Dr Hove, through the cotton districts in India was lying in a section of the British Museum. Attention of Mr Gibson, then Chief Conservator of Forests of the Bombay Presidency, was drawn to it when he was in England in 1852. Mr Gibson found it very interesting and got it published as a Selection by the Government of Bombay Presidency, in 1853. The manuscript with a large information on cotton cultivation and on different types of trees in the areas could have perhaps escaped the attention of a person who had no interest in forests and crops. This case shows that the tastes and background of persons who chose material for publication have also been an important factor in such publications.

1/ Introduction to Selection of papers from the records at the East India House relating to the Revenue, Police and Civil and Criminal Justice under the Company's Governments in India, Vol. I, London, Printed by order of the Court of Directors, by E. Cox and Son, 1820. Item 6.22-11 in this volume.

History and extent of publication

The first Selection from Records was published in four volumes as long back as in 1820-26, by the East India Company. However, it was only since the 1850's that this activity was taken up on a regular basis by various Governments.

The Government of India, as well as the local Governments, published their Selections in a large number in the early period. In 1849, the Government of the North Western Provinces published their first Selection viz.,'Revenue management of the Ajmere District, 1843-44', by Major Dixo Two years later, in 1851, Selections from the Records of the Governments of Bengal and Madras appeared, viz., Bengal: 'On the poppy cultivatic and the Benares Opium Agency' by W.C.B.Eatwell; and Madras: 'Reports from the Civil Engineers' Department on the more important works during t year 1848-49'. The first Bombay Selection appeared in 1852; it was a 'Report by Capt G. Wingate, on the plan of survey and assessment - most suitable to the province of Khandesh, and also the instructions issued on the subject by Government'. The first Selection from the Reco of the Government of India appeared in 1853, vi 'Papers on the proposed railway in Bengal'.

Other Governments also soon took up this work, and within a period of thirty years, i.e. by 1884, about 600 Selections were published by various Governments. The activity continued thereafter, though not always with the same vig By now, we have in all about 1700 Selections. About 700 of them are published by the Governme of Bombay, 500 by the Government of India, and the rest by the other Governments.

Preparation of the Check-list

In order to have a full idea regarding the number of relevant items to be annotated, a pre liminary check-list was prepared. This list wa continuously strengthened as and when new items came to the notice. Selections published upto 1901 have been recorded in a publication, viz. Catalogue of Selections from Records available the Imperial Library (Calcutta, 1901). This catalogue is almost exhaustive. A microfilm co of this catalogue was purchased for the work of the check-list. Catalogues of various Governme publications and archives were also consulted especially for the Selections published after 1901. Much additional information was also gathered through correspondence with the Directors of State Archives. On the basis of information, collected in various ways, a check-list of relevant items was finalised.

Material selected for this volume

It may be pointed out here that, taken together Selections are a very heterogeneous group of writings. They include memoirs, travelogues, correspondence, minutes, survey settlement reports, administrative reports, schemes of proposed projects relating to tea cultivation, canals, railway construction etc. Accounts of incidents and customs like Sati and female infanticide have also been published as Selections from Records. However, not all the Selections are included in this volume. Four types of Selections are excluded: (a) Those of the Selections that do not relate to Indian economic history are, obviously, excluded; (b) Selections which were originally in the nature of committee and commission reports, administrative reports and survey settlement reports, are also omitted, since they have been entered into appropriate volumes covering those types of works. (c) Calenders published as selections, e.g. Bengal Selections: Calender of Records of the Select Committee at Fort William in Bengal, 4 January to 7 November 1758, 9 January to 31 December 1776 and 28 January to 29 December 1770; Calcutta, 1915. These calenders record letters passed between authorities during the specified period. Although, this record is important for economic history, these calenders are generally excluded because they do not give full contents of the correspondence; and (d) Selections which could not be located in the archives and libraries covered by us. A list of these selections is given below:

(1) Indian Record Series. Commercial views of the relations between British Government and the Nawab Nazim of Bengal, Behar and Orissa. London, (Indian Records) 1870.

Nevertheless, even after the exclusion of these works, annotation for not less than 600 Selections appear in this volume.

Availability of material

Unfortunately, there is no single centre either in India, or in the United Kingdom, where all the Selections are available at one place. Many of them are available in the National Archives at Delhi and the India Office Library at London. A fairly large number is also available in the National Library at Calcutta, Central Secretariat Library, Delhi, and the State Archives at Bombay, Madras, etc. The Gokhale Institute's Library at Poona also holds a good number of these Selections, and, therefore, many of the annotated entries indicate this Library (GIPE), as the 'Library Consulted'. This does not, of course, mean that they are not available in other Libraries. In fact, the work of annotating was also carried out at several of the centres mentioned above.

All the Selections were found in printed form and most of them were in 'good' or 'useable' condition. However, a few of the early Selections were in 'bad' condition and the important among them need to be reprinted. For example, copies of a selection containing an account of tours by Dr Hove (Bombay Govt, New Series, No. 16), mentioned above, are available only in a very few libraries in India, and most of them, in poor condition.

Subjects covered

Selections from records cover a variety of subjects. It has already been pointed out that Selections in the nature of committee reports, administrative reports, and survey settlement reports, are annotated in their respective volumes. All items in this volume are classified according to a classification schedule specially prepared for the purposes of the present Bibliography. This schedule is given elsewhere. The following table will give an idea of the broad subjects covered by the Selections included in this volume. It may be needless to point out that some of the Selections, although cover two or more subjects, could first be classified only in a 'more important' subject, before providing necessary cross references to other subjects.

It can be seen from the above table that (even after excluding survey settlement reports), the Selections in the present volume deal mainly with general economic conditions, land, agriculture, natural resources and communications. The nature of information available in the Selections classified under different heads is described below:

General economic history

Selections classified under this head describe socio-economic conditions of different regions at different periods. Almost all the regions which formed the parts of British India before 1947 are represented. Some selections also cover important princely States like Baroda, Mysore and Travancore-Cochin. The period covered varies from Selection to Selection. One of these, viz. Selections from unpublished records of Government for the years 1748 to 1768 inclusive, relating mainly to the social condition of Bengal (item No. 2.42-8) covers an earlier and a long period of 20 years and is full of detailed information and statistics. Another one, namely, Memoir on the Sawantwaree State by W. Courtney and J.M. Auld (item no 2.42-49) also deserves special mention because of its rich statistical information on the population of the region. Researchers will also find multi-volumed Baramahal records (item nos 2.42-59, 60, 61) useful. This class of Selections also contains a number of memoirs, memoranda and reports.

Natural resources

Items classified under this head relate mainly to forests and minerals. Selections on forests deal mainly with forest administration and cultivation of forests in different regions. Minerals dealt with are mainly coal, iron, salt and stone.

Population

Only 7 annotated items deal with population as such. However, most of the items classified under 'General economic history' also give some information on population. Memoir on the Sawantwaree State, for example, classified in 'General economic history', includes census statistics. Another item, (item no 4.2-1) includes a report on the Census of Punjab population taken on the 1st January 1855. Both these items published in the 1850's, deal with pre-1872 census and are full of valuable information.

Social institutions

Twenty-eight items that deal with social institutions having influence on the economy, find place in this Section. A Selection on the influence of castes on the fixation of rates of land rent (item no 5.211-1) is the only item of its kind.

Land

Various types of land tenures are described in detail in several Selections. These will be very useful to the researcher working on the history of land tenures and agriculture. Those interested in the history of land tenures in the Madras Presidency will find mine of data in Baramahal records consisting of 22 sections (item nos 5.520-1 and 2). It is a record of the introduction of the rayatwari system in the area. These volumes give information on a variety of topics such as revenue administration, population and general economic conditions in the Baramahal districts since 1500 A.D. One of the items which has already been referred to, viz. Selection of papers from the records at the East India House, published in 4 volumes, is full of useful statistics on land (item no 6.22-11). This also holds good of another item, viz., Papers relating to the commutation rates of the Madras Presidency (item no 6.24-2). Some selections also deal with the system of Inam and its abolition.

Agriculture

Agriculture is the main subject of 117 Selections and, if we take into account Selections classified under Land, the predominance of the subject of agriculture in all these Selections, even after the exclusion of survey settlement reports, becomes obvious. Plantations and their development has been described in some Selections. Cotton cultivation in different regions is another major topic covered. One item, Note on land transfer and agricultural indebtedness in India (item no 7.510-1) deserves special attention of the researchers in the field because of its wide time span (1850-1895), all India coverage and detailed statistics. Agricultural indebtedness and consequent land alienation is also discussed in some Selections, among which Agricultural Indebtedness in India and its remedies being selections from official documents (item no 7.510-5) and Papers relating to the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act during the years 1875-1894 in two volumes (item no 7.513-2) require special mention. A number of Selections cover various schemes of irrigation surveys and projects.

Communications

Of the 55 items classified under this head, the majority deal with the construction and maintenance of various roads. Some items also deal with railways and canals.

Commerce

Only ten Selections deal with this subject and most of these are of very minor importance. One of the items, however, is full of statistics on prices, production, import and export of commodities in some of the districts in Madras Presidency (item no 10.3-2).

Industry

Of the ten Selections classified under this head special mention may be made of two items. Item no 11.10-1 gives information on the industries and handicrafts in certain districts of the Madras Presidency and item no 11.28-2 contains detailed description of the processes in the leather industry. The rest are of minor importance.

Labour

Of the very few items that appear under the head, one, Memoir by W.C.Renouf (item no 12.410-1), deserves special mention as it gives districtwise wage rates for various categories of workers in Punjab in 1909.

Money and Banking

Only 10 items have been classified under this head. The Baramahal Records, Section 19: Money (item no 13.10-1) gives prices of gold and silver for the years 1792 to 1798 besides other information. Report on the proposed abolition of the Madras mint (item no 13.114-2) contains ample statistics on value of imports and exports of public and private bullion, values of different coins, net cost of coinage etc. Another item, viz. Selections from papers relating to the introduction of a gold currency in India (item no 12.121-1) will also be useful to the researcher in the field because of its rich statistical contents.

Public finance

Some of the items under this head deal with customs duties in Punjab and North Western Provinces. One item, viz., Report on the interior administration, resources, and expenditure of the Government of Mysore, under the system prescribed by the orders of the Governor General in Council, dated 4th September 1799, by M. Wilks gives information on the revenue and expenditure of the Mysore Government for the years 1799/1800 to 1803/04.

Foreign trade

Useful information is available about the trading and other activities of the East India Company in some Selections under this head. The most important among these are The English factories in India, 1619-1669. A calendar of documents in the India Office, British Museum and Public Records Office, 12 Vols, edited by William Foster (item no 16.110-3); Letters to Fort St George 40 vols (item no 16.110-15); and Fort St David consultations 17 vols (item no 16.110-20). Since Foster's volumes give detailed information about the original documents, they have been included here as a special case.

Very little documentary information is available in English language on the activities of the Dutch East India Company. The Government of Madras have published an English translation of the Dutch records giving some information on the activities of the Dutch Company operating in Malabar (item no 16.13-1). Some information on the Company's activities is also available in other two items included in this volume, viz., The Diaries of Streynsham Master 1675-1680 and other contemporary papers relating thereto by Richard Carmac Temple (item no 16.110-11), and Papers relating to Cochin with special reference to the Dutch possessions and claims and to the British rights arising therefrom (item no 2.42-84). Some information on the trading activities of the French is available in The Private diary of Anand Ranga Pillai, Dubash to Joseph Francois Duplex, Knight of the order of St. Michael and Governor of Pondicherry. A record of of matters political, historical, social and personal from 1736-1761, translated from the Tamil by order of the Government of Madras, and edited by J. Fredric Price, assisted by K. Rangachari (item no 16.14-1).

Consumption

The only item under this head contains correspondence relating to the measures taken in Sind to reduce the expenses on birth, marriage and funeral ceremonies by Muslims in the region (item no 18.12-1).

Welfare programmes

These cover mainly schemes of water supply to various cities and towns. A few items contain educational records.

Economic policy, change

The only item under this head is a minute by the Governor General of India describing the policy of the Government in respect of improvements in India during 1848-1856.

Period covered

The Selections included in this Bibliography furnish information for different periods. The earliest period for which information is available is from 1570 to 1799 in a Selection published by the Government of Madras o Land revenue administration (item no 6.117-2). The latest period for which some information is available is the year 1947, in a Selection published by the Government of Bihar which covers a period from 1772 to 1947 (item no 2.42-28).

Statistics

It will be seen from the annotations that special care has been taken to note the statistical information available relating to the subject, the region and the period in each case. Detailed statistics are available on the population of different regions at different periods, prices of various commodities including foodgrains, cotton etc., revenue rates and collection, land under cultivation, rural indebtedness, expenditure on important public works, etc. A few items may be mentioned here to illustrate the rich statistical contents. Statistical report on the principality of Kolhapur by D.C. Graham (item no 2.42-47) gives statistics on land occupancy and utilization, crops, prices of grains, population, manufacture, etc., for Kolhapur state for a period of one hundred and fifty years from 1700 to 1850 A.D. Memoir on the Sawantwaree state, by W. Courtney and J.W. Auld (item no 2.42-49) gives population figures for the villages in the state in 1851, by age, sex, caste, religion, marital status, occupation and education. Baramahal Records running into 22 sections, which are classified under different heads, are full of statistics. Report on the census, taken on the 1st January 1855, of the population of the Punjab territories (item no 4.2-1) gives census for Punjab for 1855. Selection of papers from the records at the E.I.House (item no 6.22-11), already referred to above, is very rich in statistics, particularly in respect of agriculture and revenue. Similar is the case of Papers relating to the commutation rates of the Madras Presidency (item no 6.24-2). Ample statistical information on wheat production and trade during the later half of the 19th century is available in Wheat production and trade of India (1879) (item no 7.211-3). A researcher working on rural indebtedness cannot ignore Note on land transfer and agricultural indebtedness in India (item no 7.510-1) which gives all-India statistics on rural indebtedness and consequent land alienations, nor Papers relating to the Deccan Agriculturists' Relief Act during the years 1875-1894 (item no 7.513-2) which is also very rich in agrarian statistics. Item no 9.2312-3 gives detailed statistics on canal construction and traffic. Another item viz. Memorandum by W.C. Renouf (item no 12.410-1) gives statistics relating to wages of workers in different occupations in Delhi, Lahore and Amritsar for 1909. Reference has already been made to two items, item no 13.114-2 and item no 13.121-1 which give ample useful information on gold and silver prices, import and export, cost of coinage and many allied matters. In fact, almost all the items classified under 'Foreign trade' are full of statistics on import and export trade.

NWP Selections

It is necessary to point out a peculiarity in the publication of Selections from the Records of the North Western Provinces. A set of 45 parts was published under the title Selections from public correspondence (Agra, 1849-1867). Some of the earlier Selections included therein were reprinted in Selections from the Records of the Government, North Western Provinces, second ed 2 vols (Agra, 1855). The Selections were again reprinted as Selections from the Records of the Government, North Western Provinces, New series, 5 vols (Allahabad, 1864-1869). Titles given in the earlier prints were not always mentioned in the later reprints. In the present volume, material from the last printing, i.e. Allahabad, 1864-1869, has been annotated. The New Series volumes do not mention 'parts' but contain either 'Articles' or 'Numbers'.

Conclusion

The above review will indicate the nature of the material available and, hence, the utility of Selections to the researchers in Indian economic history. Unfortunately, no single library holds all the Selections together. Many of the important Selections, published more than a hundred years ago, need to be reprinted. For, the few copies that are still available in old libraries, are fast becoming difficult to handle and use. Microfilming of all the Selections in one series may also solve some of the researcher's problems.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

'Selections from records' annotated in this Bibliography are mostly the Selections from official records of the East India Co, the Government of India, and various provincial and other local governments. Each government has published its own Selections, generally in the form of a series. After a time, some governments have replaced their old series, by introducing a 'New' or 'Second' series. In the case of series of some governments, the departments from which the records are selected are indicated in parenthesis in the title of the Selection, while in others separate series have been published for various departmental records. Thus, the Bombay Government published its 'Old Series' (nos 1-15) between 1852 and 1855, and, thereafter, started its 'New Series'. It has also published, separately, the 'Irrigation Series' and the 'Police Series'.

Each Selection is annotated in the Bibliography in the following order:

(1) Name of the government - title of the Selection - name of the author, editor, etc.
(2) Bibliographical details of the book, including the name and number of the series, place where it was located, its form and condition.
(3) Principal contents of the Selection, relevant for economic history, with details relating to region and period covered.
(4) Statistics available, if any, with details relating to region and period covered.
(5) Additional/special features, if any.
(6) Cross references to any other item(s), if any.

INDEXES

The Bibliography of Selections from records is supplied with three indexes: (1) Subject, (2) Region and (3) Author. The 'Contents and Statistics' parts are covered by the subject index. In the subject index, which also supplies information on region and period covered, the availability of statistics is shown by a small 's' in brackets, thus: (s). The Region and Author indexes indicate only the class number and item number, and do not mention the subject and the period covered. When there are more than one item numbers under a common class number, the latter is shown only once at the beginning and not repeated for other item numbers.

INTRODUCTION

For quite a long time, land revenue formed a substantial part of the governmental income in India and, therefore, assessment and collection of land revenue became an important administrative activity. Since governments tried to maximize collections from land revenue, this activity directly affected a large part of the population which was mainly engaged in agriculture. Various systems of land revenue assessment were operating under different governments in different parts of India. Some later historians have traced the poverty of Indian agriculturists, to a large extent, to the defective land revenue systems. Voluminous data are available on this point, both in published and unpublished form. For the period covering the British administration in India, primary published data are mainly available in the form of (i) Reports of the Select Committees of the British Parliament on East India Affairs, (ii) Proceedings of the meetings and correspondence of the Boards of Revenue, (iii) Reports of successive famine commissions, and (iv) Survey and settlement reports. For the period covering pre-British administrations, though part of the information is available in the form of books, articles etc., much of it is still in manuscript and unpublished form and remains yet to be collated and analysed.

Check list and annotations

Since a complete and comprehensive list of all the survey and settlement reports was not available, a preliminary check list, however incomplete, had to be prepared to start the work of annotations. This list was prepared from the following sources :

(1) Catalogue of Selections from Records available in the Imperial Library (Calcutta, 1901);

(2) Catalogues of various government publications and archives; and

(3) Classified catalogue of the Servants of India Society and the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics Library, Poona.

The check list was continuously strengthened as the work progressed.

Important libraries, state archives and state land records depts were visited for locating the reports and for preparing the annotations. Some reports were located and annotated in the India Office Library and Records, London. However, due to shortage of time, in respect of some, only title and bibliographical information was noted down. Similarly, for the reports written in regional languages, in the case of princely states, only bibliographical information is presented here, indicating at the same time the regional language in which the report was written.

Presently, the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi, has undertaken the work of microfilming all Indian Land Survey and Settlement Reports. So far (Sept 1976) they have microfilmed 632 reports and the work is progressing. The mimeograph copy of the list of these reports was received when most of the material of this part of the Bibliography was in press. This list contained 110 items which we could not trace earlier. Since these items could not be annotated and included in the main body of this part, we have presented them in an addendum giving titles and bibliographical information only. This addendum has separate region and author indexes.

Subjects covered

Since all the reports presented in this part of the bibliography deal with settlement and assessment of land revenue, they are arrnaged region-wise, instead of subject-wise, and as they cover, more or less, the same subjects, only region and author indexes are given at the end. A list of more important commonly occuring subject words appearing in these reports is given below :

Agricultural crops
_____ output
_____ practices
_____ stock _____ yield

It must be mentioned here that earlier settlement reports contain detailed information on almost every economic aspect of the region where the assessment was introduced. While dealing with the subject of land revenue, such topics have also been covered as abkari, aboriginal tribes, castes, coinage, currency, customs, forced labour, gold-washing, handicrafts, income-tax, jail manufactures, liquor consumption, minerals, savings, slaves, social life, trade, travels, weights and measures, etc. However, as compared to the earlier reports, later reports do not contain as much elaborate information on various economic aspects of the region. Whatever information is given is scanty and the presentation is different from the earlier reports. Hence it is doubtful whether a consistant statistical picture, in the form of a time series be built up for different economic aspects of a region on the basis of the information contained in settlement and assessment reports alone. Other primary sources like British Parliamentary Papers, committee and commission reports, and serials would also have to be used for this purpose.

In all, 2101 items are included in this part of the Bibliography. Along with assessment, settlement or resettlement reports, they also include forecast, rent-rate and supplementary rent-rate reports, depending on the procedure followed in different regions. All these reports with different nomenclatures deal with assessment of revenue. There is, however, a difference between settlement and assessment. A settlement involves, firstly, exact determination of the amount of government claim or land revenue due from an area and the person liable to pay that claim and, secondly, the compilation of the record of rights, whereas assessment involves only the former aspect. However, the word settlement has persisted in popular speech and in official documents, even though there was no revision of record of rights in subsequent assessments.

In addition to these settlement, assessment, forecast, rent-rate etc. reports, we have also included in the Bibliography important settlement manuals, relevant statistical and committee reports and notes, memoranda, correspondence, etc. relating to the settlement. These are not actual reports, but they, especially the earlier ones, in addition to analysing the technical aspects of survey and settlement, give detailed information on various other points as well. For instance, (1) The Bombay Survey and Settlement Manual, 1882, comp by H.V.Sathe, and (2) Bombay Survey and Settlement Manual, 1917, revised by R.G.Gordon, trace and analyse the history of pre-British and British land revenue administration in India, discuss the Joint Report by Goldsmid, Wingate and Davidson, comment on the methodology of original and revision settlements, describe all the tenures and give supplemental evidence in the appendices. Similarly, item numbers 1, 2, 3, 7, 85, 212, 1144, 1228, 1421, 1422, 1587, 1589 and 1590, which include notes, correspondence, memoranda and committee reports discuss in great details various aspects of survey and settlement, and land revenue administration in different regions like Assam, Bengal, Bombay, NWFP, Punjab and North Western Provinces.

As the British took over any part of India, they tried to change or modify its land revenue system and administration in the light of their own ideas. However, they could not immediately do away with the systems which were operating in various parts under the laws of their predecessors. Introduction of new ideas and new systems required time and for the major part of the nineteenth century land revenue systems and principles of settlement and assessment were under constant discussion. The nineteenth century also witnessed some of the ablest British administrators in action in various provinces in India. Names of persons like R.M.Bird, James Thomason, Henry Lawrence and Edward Thornton in North India, Richard Temple, A. Russell, Charles Grant, and Chisholm in the Central Provinces, M. Elphinstone, Capt. Robertson, Chaplin, Goldsmid, Wingate, Davidson, Vibart and Gordon in Bombay, and Col. Read and Thomas Munro in Madras, will always remain prominent in the history of land revenue administration in India.

On the subject of land revenue, as already observed, one has to look into the voluminous material published in the form of Selections from Records, Parliamentary Papers, Committee Reports, Articles, Books, etc. These items are included in other parts of the Bibliography. Though one can look into their indexes and find out the relevant items, some of the important ones are indicated below for ready references :

Since an exhaustive list of all the settlement reports is nowhere available, it is not possible to indicate the extent of our coverage. It is, however, hoped that the major part of the material has been covered in this Bibliography. The annotations are presented in such a way as to indicate clearly the regions or the parts of regions which we have not been able to cover.

All the items are arranged alphabetically, beginning from those for the whole of India, followed by provinces, within each province by districts and within each district by talukas. Numerous geographical changes have occurred during the long period covered by the Bibliography. Therefore, to avoid confusion and to bring in uniformity in presentation, the provinces, districts, talukas and the princely states are taken from the Census of India 1941. Districts and talukas not appearing in the Census of India 1941 under a particular province, but were included in it previously, are shown by an asterisk mark. The number of annotations prepared for every district is shown in the brackets immediately after its name.

Region-wise description

The following is a region-wise description of settlement reports included in this Bibliography which will indicate, to a certain extent, the methodology followed in different regions and the extent of our coverage.

India

Items appearing under 'India' generally discuss permanent, ryotwari and temporary settlements in various parts of India. The earliest item is Mr. Stack's memorandum of 1880 on temporary settled areas. Memorandum submitted by the landholders of Northern India to the Govt of India (1910) is also included here.

Andaman and Nicobar Islands

Settlement reports for this area are either not published or could not be located. Rules regarding Andaman and Nicobar settlements for granting of licences to occupy land were published in the local gazette of 6th September 1884 and 31st January 1885.

Assam

British acquired Assam, part by part, during the period from 1765 to 1872. Goalpara and Sylhet districts were acquired in 1765 and were brought under permanent settlement in 1793. Part of Sylhet was under temporary settlement. Darrang, Kamrup, Lakhimpur, Nawgong and Sibsagar districts which came under British administration after the First Burmese War (1824-26) were settled annually and this settlement expired in 1893. Khasi, Jaintia and Naga Hills and also Jaintia pargana were acquired by 1835. Parts of Hill regions were under annual settlements, while in some parts only house-tax was levied. The settlement in Jaintia pargana expired in 1894. Eastern Dwars were annexed in 1866 and were under annual settlements. Cachar district was annexed in 1832. In 1841, Lieut Thuillier made a survey of cultivated fields and also of those waste lands which he thought could be brought under cultivation. In 1843-44 a settlement was effected for Cachar which was followed by one in 1859 made effective for 20 years. Next settlement operations were started in 1879 and were completed in 1883. This settlement was made effective for 15 years.

Three out of the 21 reports on Assam, cover entire Assam Province and the remaining refer to Cachar, Darrang, Kamrup, Lakhimpur, Nowgong, Sibsagar and Sylhet districts. Some of these, although located in the India Office Library, London, could not be annotated. No reports could be located for the period before 1893. Also no reports could be located for Balpara and Sadiya Frontier Tracts, Garo, Khasi, Jaintia, Lushai and Naga Hills areas and for the Princely States of Khasi and Manipur. The earliest report in the Bibliography refers to the Assam Valley Settlement in 1893 and the latest to the Lakhimpur dist, 1937.

Baluchistan Agency

Though Quetta was annexed by the British in 1877, it was in 1896 that the Province of British Baluchistan and Tribal Areas was created and brought under British administration. It seems that settlement operations were begun in this area during the first decade of this century. Annotations of 7 settlement reports which refer to parts of Loralai, Quetta-Pishin and Sibi districts are presented in this part. No reports could be located for the Kalat and Zoab agencies. The earliest report included in the Bibliography is for the settlement of Quetta tehsil, 1908, written by Mir Shams Shah and published in 1911. All other reports have been written by Diwan Jamiat Rai.

Baroda

The Revenue Department of the Baroda State was reorganised under the regime of Sayajirao Gaekwad and the settlements were conducted on the lines of the Bombay Settlements. The earliest settlement reports in this Bibliography are for Damnagar, Amreli, Kodinar and Dhari talukas prepared in 1884-86 by F.A.H.Elliot and the latest one is for Bhimkatta Peta in Amereli district in 1929.

Bengal Province and Princely States

The earliest settlement report of Bengal is for Chittagong Noabad lands, published in 1871. The settlement report for Majnamuta and Jallamuta estates was published in 1882. The latest settlement report included here is that for Hooghly district, published in 1942. No settlement report could be located for Chittagong Hill Tract, Nadia, Rangpur and 24-Parganas districts and for Cooch-Behar and Tripura princely states.

Except Darjeeling district, Noabad estates in Chittagong district and Dwars in Jalpaiguri district, all other districts in the Bengal Presidency were settled permanently. The Diwani rights were acquired by the East India Company in 1765 and direct management of revenue was taken over by them in 1771. As the servants of the Company had no previous knowledge and experience of revenue management in India, the old Moghul system of revenue collection, with all its advantages and drawbacks, was continued for some years. Assessments were made for five-year and one year period in succession. Lord Cornwallis arrived in India in 1786 with instructions to implement the provisions of the Act 24 Geo III, Cap. 25 of 1784. This Act commanded the East India Company "to inquire into the alleged grievances of landholders, and if founded in truth to afford them redress, and to establish permanent rules for the settlement and collection of revenue, and for the administration of justice, founded on ancient laws and local usages of the country."[1] The Court of Directors, in a letter dated, 12th April, 1786, directed Lord Cornwallis that "the settlement should be made, in all practicable instances with the zamindar;... that the amount (of assessment) when determined... should be considered as permanent and unalterable revenue of their territorial possessions in Bengal; Yet for special reasons... the present settlement might be concluded for the term of ten years only".[2] However, Lord Cornwallis was not in favour of ten year settlement. The Court of Directors accepted his proposal and in March, 1793, the decennial settlement was made 'permanent'.

The permanent settlement had a very long life in Bengal. The Land Revenue Commission of Bengal, 1938, under the chairmanship of Sir Francis Floud, recommended in their report, abolition of permanent settlement and adoption of ryotwari system. The actual abolition of the permanent settlement is, however, a post-independence phenomenon.

Bihar Province and Princely States

In 1912, the then Bihar and Orissa districts, included in the Bengal Presidency, were separated and formed into the Bihar and Orissa Province. Districts of Palamau, Ranchi, Angul and Sambalpur were added to this new Province. In 1936, Orissa was separated and formed into a new province with Balasore, Cuttack, Ganjam, Koraput, Puri and Sambalpur districts. Permanent settlement was in operation in all the districts of Bihar except parts of some of the districts. There were two estates in Manbhum district and two in Singhbhum district which were temporarily settled. Kolhan tract in Singhbhum district and part of Palamau sub-division (Lohardagga district) were under ryotwari settlement. Part of the Santhal Pargana district, excluding the Damini-Koh government estate, was under permanent settlement. There were 18 permanently settled and 186 government estates in Hazaribagh district.

The permanent settlement was made applicable to Bihar districts in 1793. During the first few years of the acquisition of Diwani rights, the revenue of the Bihar Province, called the Bundi-bust, was settled every year at a Poonya festival, which was held in the month of September. As this annual settlement led to undesirable consequences, the Controlling Committee of Revenue at Fort William sanctioned a triennial settlement for Bihar in 1771. Like Bengal, the permanent settlement in Bihar also had a long life and its abolition was a post-independence phenomenon.

The earliest report included here is that for the ryotwari settlement of government farms in Palamau, published in 1872 and the latest one is for the revision settlement of Dalbhum, published in 1942.

Bombay Province and Princely States

Most of the survey and settlement reports of Bombay were published under the series 'Selections from Records of the Bombay Government'. The first annotation under Bombay refers to the "Joint Report" by Goldsmid, Wingate and Davidson, 1847, which was a basis for the survey and settlements in Bombay Province. The same report was reprinted in 1939 as Bombay Govt Selection No. 532 (New series) with the addition of 'measurement and classification rules of the Deccan, Gujrat, Konkan and Kanara Surveys'. The earliest reports, included in the Bibliography refers to Wingate's surveys of Badamee and Bagalkot talukas in Bijapur Collectorate (1853), Bankapur taluka in Dharwar talukas, also in Dharwar district (1853), supplement to revision settlement of Purandar taluka by W.E.Evans (1853) and Dowell's notes on old Ratnagiri taluka settlement of 1826-30, published in 1912 as Bombay Govt Selection No. 197 (New series). The reports of the original settlement of Indapur, Bhimthadi, Pabal and Haveli talukas of the Poona collectorate, which was carried out from 1835 onwards by Goldsmid, Wingate and Nash are included as appendices in the revision settlement report of Indapur taluka by J. Francis, 1877, and published as Bombay Govt Selection No. 151 (New series). The latest survey and settlement reports, included in this Bibliography, refer to the revision surveys of some of the talukas of Kaira district (1942) and Sholapur district (1943).

The British adopted and applied the ryotwari system of survey and settlement in Bombay Province. Previous to the introduction of this system the old Maratha system was followed. The revenue was fixed annually for each village as a whole, taking into account the character of the season and the apportioning of this amount among the individual land-holders was left to the village officers. This system as implemented by the British was a total failure and the condition of the agriculturists worsened considerably. As a result, Mr. Pringle was deputed in 1824 to devise a suitable system for Poona and other districts. Mr. Pringle's settlement, concluded in 1828, was also found to be defective and in 1835 a new survey was undertaken in Indapur taluka. It was in 1847 that a definite form was given to the land revenue system in the Deccan, in the Joint Report of Goldsmid, Wingate and Davidson, mentioned above. This system was further extended in 1854 to Gujrat and Konkan districts and then to the whole of the Bombay Presidency. Devgad taluka of Ratnagiri was the last area brought under the operation of this system in 1891. In the meantime, the talukas surveyed originally fell in for revision of assessment on the completion of 30 year period. Thus, Indapur taluka was reassessed in 1868. The original surveys for some areas and revision surveys for others, therefore, had to be conducted simultaneously.

During this period, the Joint Report was considered as manual for surveys and settlement.

Considerable discussion took place on the principles of ryotwari settlement, methodology of surveys, classification of soil and assessment rates. This was in the form of notes, memoranda, correspondence, etc. Whole of this material was systematically brought together by H.V.Sathe and published in 1882 as the Survey and Settlement Manual. This was again revised and rewritten by R.G.Gordon and was published in 1917.

Men who contributed to build up the system were administrators of very high calibre, and within certain limits, aimed at the progress of agriculture and well-being of the agriculturists. Land revenue was adjusted from time to time according to their own understanding of the situation. But the general feeling among officers engaged in land assessment work was that the assessment was heavy and oppressive. This feeling was amply expressed in Reginald Heber's Narrative of a Journey through the Upper Provinces of India from Calcutta to Bombay, 1824-1825 (with notes upon Ceylon); An account of a Journey to Madras and Southern Provinces, 1826; And letters written in India. New edition, 2 vols, (London : John Murray, 1873), and John Brigg's The Present Land Tax in India (London, 1830). Bishop Heber's account was a general one about the conditions of the people in different provinces through which he travelled. Brigg's account was a particular one, about the land tax in India, after an exhaustive enquiry into various practices during the ancient and modern times. R.C.Dutt's remarks about Brigg's monumental work are worth quoting. He says, "A great and thoughtful work like this would have created a revolution in any other country in the world. In India, it did not produce the slightest change in the procedure of the Bombay revenue officials".[3]

As for the survey and settlement reports of the Princely States, we could locate only some for the states under the Deccan States Agency. For states under other agencies only one report could be located, that for the Cambay State.

Central India Agency

Of the 44 reports relating to Central India, 35 are for Indore State, 2 for Dhar State, 1 each for Chhattrpur, Baoni and Bijawar States and Manpur Pargana (British) and 3 for Panna State. All these reports were located in the Land Reocrds and Settlement Office, Gwallior and Nehru Memorial and Museum Library, New Delhi.

Central Provinces and Berar and Princely States

Different areas included in the Central Provinces came under British rule at different dates. Saugor and Narmada territories were ceded to the British in 1818 by the Raja of Nagpur. Sambalpur State was annexed in 1849 and the State of Nagpur in 1853. Nimar and Chhindwara districts were ceded by Sindias in 1818, while districts which constituted Berar were taken over for management from the Nizam of Hyderabad in 1853. In 1861, Saugor and Narmada territories were joined with the province of Nagpur and formed into Central Provinces under a Chief Commissioner. The districts of Chhattisgarh plain and Sambalpur were added to the Central Provinces in 1862. Nimar district was added in 1864 and Bijragogarh in 1865. The Berar districts were made part of the Central Provinces in 1903 and the province came to be known as the Central Provinces and Berar.

Previous to 1861, different systems of land revenue were operated in different areas of Central Provinces. These systems have been extensively described in the following reports :

1. Note on the Saugor and Nurbudda Territories by R.M.Bird, 31st October, 1834. (See item No. 844 in this part of the Bibliography).
2. Report on the Land Revenue Settlement of the Saugor district, 1834/35 to 1853/54 by C. Fraser, 1876. (See item No. 846 in this part of the Bibliography).
3. Report on the Territories of the Raja of Nagpur, 1827. (1901). (See item No. 2.42-10 in Part VI : Committee and Commission Reports).
4. Report on the Subah Province of Chattisgarh, 1820 by P. Vans Agnew. (1945). (See item No. 2-42-4 in Part VI : Committee and Commission Reports).

In the Saugor and Narmada territories, triennial and quienquennial settlements were operating upto 1836, in which year settlement for 20 year period was introduced. In the Nagpur State, triennial settlements were effected from 1853 to 1861. In Sambalpur and Chhattisgarh also triennial settlements were made from 1849 to 1872 and from 1854 to 1862 respectively. Parts of Nimar district came under British management in 1825 and the old farming system was kept up for about 20 years. The leases were, however, for a five year period only. After 1845, the government collected revenue directly from cultivators through village patels. This system which was known as the Khalsa system, operated for two years only. From 1847, twenty-year settlement was effected in some parts and Khalsa system was kept up in other parts. Annual settlements were effected in the Sironcha pargana which was acquired from Nizam in 1860.

After the formation of the Province, regular settlement operations were started in 1863 and completed in 1869. Twenty or thirty year settlements were effected on the basis of two main principles : (1) recognition of proprietary rights in cultivators, and (2) limitation of land revenue to one-half of the rental. This system continued upto 1947.

Out of the total 126 items included under this Province, only 5 refer to the Princely States. The earliest reports are those of C. Fraser, 1834, (1922),(item No. 844) and R.M.Bird, (1876), (item No. 846). The latest report included here is that for Kankar State (1945).

Cochin, Coorg, Delhi and Gwalior State

Only one report could be located for Cochin State, two for Coorg, four for Delhi and one for Gwalior. The first report on the settlement of Delhi division was published in 1856, in Thomason's despatches. Revision settlement was carried out in 1872-77 by Oswal Wood and was completed by R. Maconachie. The report was published in 1882. The third regular settlement was conducted during 1906-10.

Hyderabad State

Since the court language of the Hyderabad State was Urdu, all the reports were prepared in that language. Some of these have been translated into English. As the number of reports in Urdu was 53 out of 98, it was thought proper to include them in the Bibliography, mentioning only the bibliographical data and the language of the report viz., Urdu.

Jammu and Kashmir

The earliest report on Jammu and Kashmir is that of A. Wingate, titled 'Preliminary report of settlement operations in Kashmir and Jammu, 1887' and published in 1890. Similarly, another publication which gives history of the early settlement operations is 'Papers relating to Kashmir' published as British Parliamentary Paper C 6072 of 1890. The latest report included here is that of the settlement of Bhimbar tehsil, Mirpur district, published in 1935. No report could be located for areas under Gilgit Agency.

Madras Province and Princely States

Areas comprising the later Madras Presidency were acquired by the East India Company since the year 1750. Madras and its surrounding area was given as a Jagir to the company by the Nawab of Carnatic in 1750 and was finally taken over for administration in 1780. The Northern Sirkars, comprising the present districts of Vizagapatam, Ganjam, Kistna and Godavari, came under British administration in 1768. As a result of war with Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan, Salem district, Dindigul and Palni talukas of Madura district and Malabar were ceded to the British in 1792 and Coimbatore and Kanara districts and Hosur taluk in 1799. Bellary, Anantapur, Cuddapah and Kurnool districts and Palnad taluka were ceded to the British by the Nizam in 1800, but came under their direct management only in 1839. Tanjore came under British administration in 1799 and became a British district in 1855. Other Carnatic districts (Nellore, North and South Arcot, Madura, Trichinopoly and Tinnevelly) were controlled by the British since 1801 but became British districts in 1855.

Initial revenue administration under the British was of Zamindari type in the Northern Sirkars and in the Jagir areas. The land was rented out to the existing zamindars and revenue agents for one, three or five years. But the system proved unsuccessful. The same situation arose in areas where 'village lease system' was operating. These leases were for three five or ten years and the revenue was collected through joint or individual middlemen. When new areas came under British management, beginning with Baramahal, it was decided to change the then existing system. The credit for developing the new system, goes to Col Read and Sir Thomas Munro. The work which the team under Col Read started in Baramahal bore fruit in 1812 when the Court of Directors gave positive orders to act upon the ryotwari system. The Board of Revenue, however, required a few years more to finalise the ryotwari regulations and start survey operations. By 1887 most of the survey settlement work was completed, except in the districts of Vizagapatam, Malabar and Tanjore.

The earliest reports on Madras settlement give good deal of information on the systems existing previous to the introduction of ryotwari settlement and the principles and methodology followed in settling the districts after the introduction of ryotwari settlement. In this connection, apart from the reports on the E.I.Co affairs and others mentioned earlier, the following reports, annotated in this part of the Bibliography, may be referred :

1. A collection of papers relating to Jagir and other revenue pensions in the Madras Presidency, by Alexander J. Arbuthnot. (1855). (item No. 1014).

The latest settlement report of Madras included here is that for the Kistna district published in 1931. No settlement reports could be located for the princely states of Pudukottai, Banganapalle and Sandur.

Mysore State

Annotations of 20 settlement reports are presented under Mysore State. Majority of these refer to the settlement of Hasan district.

North West Frontier Province and Trans Frontier Area

In 1901, Punjab was divided and a separate North West Frontier Province was created. Districts which constituted this province came under British administration after the Second Sikh War in 1849. The earliest report appearing here is that of the summary settlement of Hushtnugur in the district of Peshawar by Lieut James, published in 1853 in the series, 'Selections from the Public Correspondence of the Punjab Administration', No. 8. The settlement report of the Peshawar district by Maj Hugh R. James was published in 1865. The regular settlement operations were, however, started by 1869/70 and were completed in 1881.

Orissa Province and Princely States

Orissa Province comprising of Balasore, Cuttack, Ganjam, Koraput, Puri and Sambalpur districts(and 23 feudatory states) was separated from Bihar and Orissa in 1936.

From 1804 to 1837 was a period of short settlements. Upto 1818 the settlements were for one, two or three years. In 1822, the period of settlement was extended to five years and then in 1826 to ten years. This experiment in short term settlements proved to be a failure and it was decided to adopt a long term settlement for the Province. The work for the first thirty-year settlement was begun in 1834 and was continued upto 1845. The settlement, however, was applied in 1837 and terminated in 1867. During this period, as the official records tell us, the authorities were concerned more with the improvement in the administration of land revenue and the welfare of the people than with the increase in the amount of land revenue. Sympathetic and able officers like A.J.M.Mills, Henry Ricketts and Wilkinson were responsible for this policy. In 1866, as Orissa was in the grip of a severe famine, instead of taking up resettlement operations, the original settlement was extended to a further period of thirty years. The permanent settlement operated in most of the feudatory states.

Out of the total of 51 annotated reports on Orissa, 24 annotations are for settlement reports of the Princely States. The earliest reports annotated here are (1) Settlement made with certain zamindars and the particulars of their agreement dated 1st March 1769, by Edward Cotiford. (1896). (item No. 1182) and (2) Papers on the settlement of Cuttack and the state of tributary mahals, 1851. (Item No. 1187). The latest report annotated here is that of the settlement of the Kalahandi dist, ex-state-khalsa area, 1946-56, by J. Das. (Item No. 1212).

Punjab Province and Princely States

The areas which are included in Punjab came under the British administration during the period from 1803 to 1849. The districts of Delhi, Gurgaon, Rohtak, Karnal, Hissar and the Sirsa tehsil of Ferozepur were acquired in 1803 as a result of the treaty of Sarji-Anjangam with the Marathas. The whole of this area remained under North Western Provinces upto 1858 when it was transferred to Punjab. Some of the Princely States which had concluded Protection treaty with the British came under direct British administration during 1834 to 1850. The remaining area of Punjab was acquired as a result of the first and second Sikh wars. Simla district had already been annexed after the Nepal war of 1815.

The revenue system adopted in Punjab was neither ryotwari nor zamindari. It was a village system of joint responsibility under which villagers, through their headmen or representative undertook to pay a fixed revenue for a fixed period and then divided the amount among themselves, each farmer having to pay a certain quota. However, in some hilly areas zamindari system was operative, while in some areas near Multan a type of ryotwari system existed. This latter system was based on the directions issued by James Thomason of Indian Civil Service. His directions were looked upon as the land revenue manual for the province for a long time.

The earlier settlements in Punjab were summary settlements, land revenue being collected only in cash instead of in kind unlike as before. After 1849, regular settlements were taken in hand. These were for periods varying from twenty to thirty years. For many districts, second revisions having expired, third revisions were carried on.[4]

There are 183 entries of settlement reports presented here under Punjab. Some of the earliest reports annotated and included here refer to the original or revision settlements of the districts of Ambala, 1846, by W. Wynard (item No. 1229), Gurgaon, 1849, by Alexander Fraser (item No. 1280), Kangra, 1848, by George Carnac Barnes (item No. 1310), Ludhiana, 1850, by H. Davidson

4. For details of the original and revision settlements refer to Baden-Powell, B.H., The Land-system of British India, (Oxford, 1892), Vol. 2, p. 543.

(item No. 1335), Rawalpindi, 1855, by Maj Cracroft (iten No. 1356), and Sialkot, 1851, by E.A.Princep (item No. 1374). The latest reports are for fifth settlement of Amritsar district, 1942 and third settlement of Jhelum district, 1948.

Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara

Ajmer-Merwara came under British administration in 1818 after its cession by the Sindias. The Sindias farmed out the villages for a fixed revenue and, in addition,imposed extra cesses in kind. But the first British Superintendent of the area, Mr. Wilder abolished this system and substituted a new system which provided for the collection of revenue in cash alone. This system also broke down and the next Superintendent, Mr. Middleton, introduced short settlements. In 1827, Mr. Cavendish revised the settlement and in 1835-36, Mr. Edmonton introduced decennial settlement. In 1841, J. Sutherland submitted a report on the Khalsa villages of Ajmer-Merwara to the Govt of North Western Provinces. Mr. Thomason, Lieut Governor of the Province, wanted the village system introduced in this area. So in 1849-50 a settlement was carried out by Maj C.G.Dixon, which was introduced in the area in 1853. There was a severe famine in 1868-69 and immediately afterwards a revision was made, by Mr. La Touche. This settlement was again revised in 1884-87 by Mr. R.S.Whiteway and was made effective for 20 years. This was followed by its revision in 1908, by W.J.E. Lupton. All these reports from 1841 onwards have been annotated in the present Bibliography (Item Nos. 1413 to 1417).

Under Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara, there are in all 39 entries of settlement reports. Of these 8 refer to Ajmer-Merwara and the remaining to the Rajputana States. For Rajputama states the earliest report annotated is for Jhalwar State, published in 1885 (item No. 1404). The latest report covered is for Mewar state, published in 1948 (item No. 1408).

Sind Province and Princely States

The Province came under British occupation in 1843 when it was conquered by Sir Charles Napier from the Amirs of Sindh. A seven year settlement - ryotwari in some parts and zamindari in others - was introduced in 1847. On the expiry of this settlement in 1853-54, it was decided to conduct a rough survey and settlement as a preliminary to the introduction of a regular settlement sometime in future. This survey continued upto 1862. In 1864 the organization of the survey and settlement department was complete. However, it was only in 1874-75 that a ten year settlement was effected.

The earliest report annotated under this province is by W.B.Webster, J.F. Lester and W.D. Dickson on the districts resumed from Meer Alli Moorad, (1853), (Item No. 1421). This is followed by "official correspondence relative to the introduction of a rough survey and revenue settlement in the Province of Sind, 1855, (Item No. 1422). A thirty year settlement was introduced on the basis of the recommendations of the report of a committee appointed for the purpose in 1915 under the chairmanship of G.E. Chatfield, (Item No. 1423). The latest reports included here are for the revision settlement of some districts in 1934.

Travancore State

Only one annotation of a report written in English could be included under Travancore State. This report refers to the revenue settlement of Travancore, 1883-1911, by S. Padmanabha Iyer, published in 1913. The memoirs of the survey of Travancore and Cochin, 1816-20 by B.S.Ward could not be located. Only title and part of the bibliographical information, therefore, has been included here.

United Provinces of Agra and Oudh and Princely States

The United Provinces of Agra and Oudh came into being in 1902 and included most of the area covered by the former North Western Provinces and Oudh. Whole of this area was acquired by the British during the hundred years from 1755 to 1856. Benares Province which included districts of Benares, part of Mirzapur, Jaunpur, Ghazipur and Ballia was permanently settled following the Permanent Settlement in Bengal. Part of Mirzapur district was temporarily settled. In other parts settlements were for a short-term, first for three years and then for five years, upto 1833. In the meantime, Mr Holt Mackenzie submitted his famous minutes in 1819 which greatly influenced the settlements in Upper India. These have been published in the Selections from the Revenue Records of the Govt of North Western Provinces, 1818-20, Calcutta, 1866. (See Part I of the Bibliography, Selections from Records, Item Nos. 6.20-3A, 4). Other reports which have influenced the settlements in Upper India were :

1. Directions for Revenue Officers by James Thomason, Lieut Governor of North Western Provinces, 1849;
2. Report on the settlement of North Western Provinces, by R.M.Bird, 1842; and
3. Minute by T.C.Robertson, Lieut Governor of North Western Provinces, 1842.

All these reports have been published in the British Parliamentary Paper HC 999 of 1853, (Item No. 1586). Regular surveys were conducted from 1853 onwards and long term settlements were effected throughout the Province.

Under this Province 435 entries are presented. Apart from the reports mentioned above, the earliest reports annotated are those for the districts of Agra by G.C.Mansel, 1842, (item No. 1592); Azimgarh by J. Thomason, 1837, (item No. 1634); Banda, 1856 (item No. 1649); Benares, 1856, (item No. 1680); Budaon, 1861 (item No. 1690); Bulandshahr by R.G.Currie, 1858 (1877), (item No. 1698); Cawnpore by H. Rose, 1842, (item No. 1707); Dehra Doon, 1856, (item No. 1713); Etawah by M.R.Gubbins, 1844, (item No. 1730); Hamirpur by Charles Allen and W. Muir, 1846 (item No. 1800); Manipuri by G.F.Edmonstone, 1842, (item No. 1860); Mirzapur, 1856, (item No. 1875); Muzaffarnagar by Edward Thornton, 1842, (item No. 1900); and Sahranpur, by Edward Thornton, 1839, (item No. 1939). Many of these reports are included in "Report on the revenue settlement of the North Western Provinces of the Bengal Presidency, under regulation IX, 1833, 2 Vols." (Benares, 1862), (item No. 1588). The latest reports annotated are those for revision settlements during 1940 to 1947.

Conclusion

There is no doubt that the survey and settlement reports, especially the earlier ones, throw up a good deal of valuable information on the land revenue administration of the British and other related subjects. That all these reports are not available at one place is, in itself, a serious lacuna for research workers. It has already been mentioned that the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi, is presently engaged in microfilming all Indian Land Survey and Settlement Reports and that so far they have microfilmed 632 reports. It is also understood that some organization in London is microfilming reports available there. If all the Survey and Settlement Reports are microfilmed in one series, it will surely satisfy a long-felt need and will prove to be a valuable addition to the available research material on Indian economic history.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The annotations of survey and settlement reports, presented in this Bibliography, are arranged regionwise. Since the subject of all the survey and settlement reports is the same, no classification number is given; instead, all items are numbered serially in a single sequence. In the classification schedule prepared for this Bibliography, appearing at the beginning of this volume, survey and settlement reports are classified under the class number 6.211.

The regionwise arrangement of the annotations begins with India, followed by other regions arranged alphabetically. A list of the districts and princely states in a region appears at the beginning of the region and a list of the talukas under each district appears at the beginning of the district. The number of annotations prepared for each district is indicated in brackets after the name of the district. Annotations of the reports which cover more or less an entire region, district or taluka appear at the beginning of the region, district or taluka respectively, followed by annotations of reports for relatively smaller areas.

Each settlement report is annotated in the following order :

1. Name of the government - title of the report - name of the author, editor etc.
2. Bibliographical details : place, agency and year of publication, number of pages, availability of supplementary information like appendices, maps, glossar 'lustrations, etc., and location, form and condition of the report.
3. Principal contents of the report indicating in general the region and the period to which it refers.
4. Statistical information available, if any, with details relating to the region and period covered.
5. Additional special features, if any.

INDEXES

Index refers to the serial numbers. Only Region and Author indexes are provided. There is no separate subject index because all the survey and settlement reports cover mostly the same common subjects. A list of commonly appearing subject words is provided in the Introduction. Similarly, a list of subject words which do not appear commonly, but in respect of which some information is available, mostly in the earlier survey and settlement reports, is also given in the Introduction.
